(a) The relationship between UNDP-assisted projects and reported investment commitment is classified as follows: CATEGORY A relates to reported commitments for which the UNDP-assisted projects carried out micro-type pre-investment studies such as identification, pre-feasibility and feasibility studies which collect, analyse and present economic, financial, technical, institutional and social data in a form that would facilitate capital investment decisions; preparatory activities such as engineering studies, final design, site preparation, etc., are also included in this category when they are carried out prior to the investment stage. CATEGORY B relates to commitments resulting from macro-type studies such as general area or regional planning studies, sector development studies, natural resources surveys, master plans, etc., all of which broadly identify the need for follow-up investment. CATEGORY C commitments stem from technical co-operation activities which support capital investment project, such as assistance in the execution and supervision of investment projects and training of technical and managerial staff. The purpose of these projects is to facilitate, implement or otherwise streamline the capital investment project. Note also that the data refer to commitments and not actual investment.

(b) The data contained in this and table 9 are rough estimates for 1991 because (i) they may involve double-counting of previous years' commitments; (ii) they may involve counting of commitments iintended for 1992; and (iii) data is incomplete. Updated information for 1991 will be available in the Investment Commitment Report for 1991.

a/ The data in this table are based on projects financed from the Indicative Planning Figures, Special Programme Resources Special Measures Fund for the Least Developed Countries, Special Industrial Services and cost-sharing.

b/ This column gives the number of United Nations Volunteers assigned to a specific recipient country during the year considered. The total in this column is obviously greater than that of the corresponding column of table 11 (number of assignments as against nationality).

c/ This column gives the number of international experts assigned to a specific recipient country during the year considered. It includes all experts working on projects financed from sources mentioned in a/ above. Aside from experts fielded by executing agencies, operational assistance experts, associate experts and experts who were staff members of firms and organizations working under subcontract to the participating/executing agencies are also included. Note that the total of this column is greater than that of the corresponding column of table 11 because this table makes provision for the fact that some experts had more than one assignment during the year concerned.

d/ This column gives the number of fellowships awarded to a specific recipient country during the year considered. It includes fellowships awarded from projects financed from sources mentioned in a/. It also includes participants in seminars, training courses and related projects. Note that the total of this column is less than that of the corresponding column of table 11 because the latter table makes provision for the fact that some fellowship awards required study in two or more countries.

a/ The data in this table are based on projects financed from the Indicative Planning Figures, Special Programme Resources Special Measures Fund for LeastDeveloped Countries, Special Industrial Services and cost sharing.

b/ This column gives international experts by nationality. It includes all international experts who worked on projects financed from sources in a/. Aside from experts fielded by executing agencies, operational assistance experts,associate experts and experts who were staff members of firms and organizations working under subcontract to the participating/executing agencies are also included. Note that the total of this column is less than that of the corresponding column of table 10 because the latter table makes provision for the fact that some experts might have had more than one assignment during the year concerned.

c/ This column gives national experts, by nationality, who worked on projects financed from sources in a/. These national experts might have been fielded by executing agencies or worked under subcontract to the participating/executing agencies.

d/ This column gives United Nations Volunteers by nationality. The total of this column is less than that of the corresponding column of Table 10, since some United Nations Volunteers have had more than one assignment during the year concerned.

e/ This column gives fellowships placed in a specific country by project financed from sources in a/. It also includes participants in seminars and training courses. Note that the total of this column is greater than that of the corresponding column of table 10. Table 11 makes provision for the fact some fellowships required study in more than one country.

f/ This column gives the value in dollars of equipment ordered from specific countries.

g/ The data in this column represents the value in dollars of subcontracts awarded to specific countries. It includes new subcontracts awarded in 1990 as well as net additions to subcontracts awarded in 1991.
